

Some patients wait in ambulance for an hour at hospital

CONCERN OVER DELAYS AT A&E

Report by Luke Bartlett

NEARLY 300 patients waited more than half an hour in ambulances outside Russells Hall Hospital during March, according to new figures.

A total of 288 people had to wait more than 30 minutes in ambulances outside the Dudley hospital and 35 waited for more than one hour.

Council bosses say Dudley's NHS trust needs to work with West Midlands Ambulance Service and other partners to tackle the problem at the accident and emergency department.

The trust says it has faced a five per cent rise in the number of ambulance attendances compared to the same period last year but it has improved in recent months.

Councillor Rachel Harris said: "The only way this can move forward is by all the hospitals, the ambulance service and other emergency services getting around a table and talking to each other."

"It needs more planning, more financing and more clear clinical leadership."

Target

So far this year there have been more than 1,400 breaches of the NHS 30-minute ambulance handover target at the hospital. In January 691 patients waited for more than 30 minutes with the figure at 448 in February.

Trust bosses said they have seen progress and had 'outperformed' other trusts in the Black Country on patient handover performance.

Karen Kelly, chief operating officer at Dudley Group NHS Foundation Trust, said: "We have seen progress in our handover times, which have significantly improved since December. At times we have outperformed other trusts in the Black Country."

"We have a plan in place to continue to reduce handover times further. We work closely with our colleagues at West Midlands Ambulance Service to make sure that patients who arrive by ambulance at A&E are assessed, treated and handed over as quickly and efficiently as possible."

"The pressure on our emergency services has been consistent throughout the last 12 months. The volume of ambulances were, at times, very challenging."

DJ BOOTH DONATION IS MUSIC TO THEIR EARS

Sycamore Adventure centre manager Keith Rodgers, left, with Clive Watson after the former Goodyear workers' donation

JUNIOR DJs will be hitting the decks in Dudley thanks to a donation of music equipment from a fund supported by factory workers.

A DJ booth has been fitted in the main hall at Sycamore Adventure in Dudley funded by former Goodyear workers. They have also purchased equipment including speakers, headphones and lights for young people to use, as well as CDs.

The donation from the 5/344 Transport and General Workers Union Benevolent Fund will also fund workshops to help the wannabe DJs hone their skills at the youth centre, based at the award-winning Sycamore Adventure playground. The equipment will enable the centre to host monthly discos for children.

Fund chairman Cyril Barrett, who worked at the Wolverhampton tyre factory, said: "This is a lovely project and will give young people interested in music the opportunity to receive training and run their own discos."

TRAFFIC

No stopping order to ease congestion

VEHICLES will be banned from stopping on several busy roads in Dudley in a bid to ease congestion.

Dudley Council has introduced traffic orders which will ban vehicles from waiting at the side of the road. The measure will be brought in at the junction of Dixon Green Road and Bean Road and at the junction of Laurel Road, Limes Road and Meadow Road in Dudley.

Waiting has also been banned on parts of Dudley Road in Wall Heath, near the junction with High Street. The changes are in response to concerns from motorists.

FIRE

Staff evacuated during store blaze

STAFF were evacuated from an Oldbury supermarket after a fire started in the storage area.

Fire crews from Oldbury and Smethwick attended the Co-op store, in Tame Road, at around 4pm on Monday, following two emergency calls.

Five members of staff were evacuated from the store in Kingsway, after the fire is believed to have started in the storage room.

CHURCH

Exhibition is tribute to fallen soldiers

A SOLDIERS of World War One display is being held at All Saints' Church Hall in Vicar Street, Sedgley, on Saturday and Sunday from 10am to 4pm.

It will feature memorabilia and photographs of local soldiers who died in the conflict.

It follows four years of research by genealogist Barbara Price.

Golden day as city plans Wolves party

Danny Batth with the trophy

GOLDEN glory returned to Molineux as Wolves lifted the Championship trophy in front of a roaring home crowd at Molineux.

Thousands of supporters watched the players and manager collect their title-winning silverware at the packed stadium on Saturday.

The players and manager Nuno Espirito Santo were presented with the trophy and medals after Wolves' last home game of the season, a goalless draw with Sheffield Wednesday. It came a week after Wolves officially won the title with an away win at Bolton.

Almost 30,000 fans packed into Molineux and stayed for the presentation, which took place in front of the North Bank stand.

Wolves will celebrate their promotion to the Premier League with an open top bus parade in the city centre and in West Park up to 30,000 fans will greet their heroes at a huge free party on bank Holiday Monday, May 7.

The club are back in the Premier League after a six-year absence and have been locked in talks with council bosses over how to mark the achievement.

The day will start with a private civic reception hosted by deputy mayor, Councillor Phil Page. Then two open top buses carrying players and staff will set off from Wolverhampton Art Gallery on Lichfield Street at noon.

Fans will line the route as the buses travel through the city to West Park where fans can greet their heroes, with Nuno and the players set to address the crowd and show off the Championship trophy. Celebrations will continue through the afternoon. Supporters will need to choose between street parade or the park event, which will be shown on a giant screen in Queen Square.

Hundreds join Albion fun day for Richard

'HE touched thousands of hearts at West Bromwich Albion'.

That is how Baggies caretaker boss Darren Moore summed up club star Richard Eades at a fun day held in his memory at Halesowen Town's Grove ground on Sunday.

Big Dave took charge of an Albion Legends XI at the event – just 24 hours after leading the Baggies to their second win under his stewardship. The 1-0 win at Newcastle also bolstered Baggies' hopes of Premier League survival.

Hundreds of people attended the event at The Grove to remember the former Albion mascot, which involved an It's A Knock-out style match between football club mascots and culminated in a match between fans' team Boing FC, which Richard used to play for, and the Albion Legends.

Tribute

Darren said: "It was a wonderful tribute for a wonderful man. He touched lots of hearts – thousands of hearts at West Bromwich Albion.

"The fact so many people attended epitomises the person he was. Players, staff, fans and the community, we all turned out to come and support his family for a wonderful cause.

"Richard was a warning, approachable man who would have done anything for you. He would always lend himself to any situation that he was in and nothing was ever too much to ask. He always had a wonderful smile on his face. I was delighted to turn out to support his family."

Mascots with Richard's sister-in-law Debbie Mason, mother Susan, children Archie and Lily, partner Carly and father Arthur

Richard, from Wednesbury, died in December aged just 42. He worked in various roles at The Hawthorns but is best remembered for his time as mascot 'Albi' – putting on the costume for over a decade from 2007.

The fun day was organised by his pal Dave Challenger, better known as Baggie Bird. The day began with an It's a Knockout-style tournament, which was won by a team made up of Richard's friends.

Richard's partner of 18 years Carly Evans said: "It was emotional but nice to see so many people turned out for him. It just goes to show that more people out there knew what a great bloke he was.

"He was all for his family and his friends. He would do anything for anybody. And he loved his football. West Brom have been unbelievable, from agreeing to meet the kids and their support for the fun day."

Among the Baggies stars to attend were former strikers Geoff Horsfield and Andy Johnson. Geoff said: "I think it says a massive amount about Rich, everybody loved him around the club and it just proves that." Andy added: "The lads have done Eadesy proud. The turn-out is a testament to the character of the bloke and to his family and friends. He was a well loved guy around the Black Country."

Traders in battle to save last bank branch

A PETITION set up by traders in a bid to save Brierley Hill's last town centre bank has more than 1,000 signatures.

The planned closure of Lloyds Bank will leave the High Street with no banks – after HSBC and Barclays branches closed.

Brierley Hill market supervisor Steven Bridgewater started the petition, which has been supported by traders and shoppers. He is planning to present it later this month in a bid to persuade Lloyds bosses into making a U-turn.

Mr Bridgewater, who took over the running of the market in January, said banks and cashpoints are crucial to retail success.

He said: "The market is doing really well as the moment but it seems a shame that the town is going the other way. We need that to get better and the last bank shutting really doesn't help.

"Cash is especially important at the market and if the bank goes then its cashpoint will be going as well."

The final day for the town's Lloyds has been earmarked for July 18. It comes as the bank announced 49 branches will close nationwide with over 300 jobs being lost.

Lloyds were unavailable for comment.

Stray horses cost councils £140k

DOZENS of horses are being seized in Dudley and Sandwell by a horse rescue firm being paid £140,000 a year.

Shropshire-based Equine Emergency Services seized 45 horses in Dudley and 30 in Sandwell last year. It is contracted by both councils to rescue tethered and stray horses. The firm charges £400 for owners to reclaim the animals. It can also find new homes for unclaimed horses. The firm's website features appeals to owners to come forward.

The service has seen the number of stray horses reduced. At one time up to 70 horses were tethered on Fens Pool Nature Reserve.

Brierley Hill councillor John Martin said: "Dudley Council was compelled to act because of the destruction of the nature reserve and cruelty to the animals."

Coach pays tribute to club rugby player, 14

DEVASTATED members of Stourbridge Rugby Club have paid tribute to a young player who died last week.

Thomas Mole, aged 14, from Wollaston, lost his short but bravely fought battle on Thursday, April 26, leaving parents Simon and Rachel and little sister Poppy.

The Oldswinford Hospital school pupil was a Stourbridge Rugby Club under-14s player and was described by his coaches as a 'true warrior' who would do anything for his teammates.

In a poignant statement on the Stourbridge Rugby Club website, coach Chris Roe said: "Throughout his years with his team mates Tom flourished into a massively physical and combative Number Eight. He was a true warrior and would do anything for his team mates."

"The Number 8 will be retired in his honour and replaced with a T. These times shouldn't happen to our kids, but the world can be a cruel place at times."

"The messages of support they have already received from the rugby family both near and far have been truly humbling and these will be of great comfort over the next few months."

Thomas was looked after by staff at Birmingham Children's Hospital and a Just Giving page has just been set up for donations to the hospital in his memory. Visit justgiving.com/fundraising/srfcu14

Dog mess penalty doubles to £100

A NEW order which penalises dog owners who fail to pick up after their pets has come into force.

The new Public Space Protection Order (PSPO) gives Dudley Council officers powers to give out fixed penalty notices for dog fouling.

The fines are up to £100 – double the previous £50.

The order also prohibits dogs in children's play areas, with similar punishment for owners flouting the regulations.

Alan Lunt, strategic director at the council, said: "We believe that introducing the PSPO and its tougher penalties will act as a deterrent for irresponsible dog owners caught not cleaning up after their pets."

Ultra effort by friends for charities

Richard Harris, Dan Woodall and Tom Lee-Field tackling the 60-mile run

THREE friends have beaten the grueling Ultra Tour of Arran raising nearly £2,000 for two charities

Dan Woodall, Rich Harris and Tom Lee-Field, from Stourbridge, took on the 60-mile off-road race over two days.

They battled testing conditions and incredibly rough terrain in order to cross the finish line in support of the Mary Stevens Hospice in Stourbridge and the Motor Neurone Disease Association (MNDA).

So far they have managed to raise more than £1,960 for the Hagley Road hospice and the MNDA.

The trio, in a statement, said: "The challenge itself was split into two days, the south half of the island on day one and the mountainous north half on the second day."

"It was an exhausting challenge that pushed us to the limits but one full of truly stunning scenes at every turn."

"We would just like to say a massive thank you for all the support and sponsorship we have received."

Application goes in to demolish eyesore block

LONG-AWAITED plans to demolish an eyesore office block in Dudley town centre have been lodged as part of a multi-million pound development.

The move to redevelop the site of Cavendish House has been welcomed by community leaders.

The planning application is to knock down the former office block in Trindle Road and replace it with a mix of retail, leisure and residential properties. The rundown block, considered by many to be Dudley's biggest eyesore, overlooks the Duncan Edwards Way bypass – one of the major gateways into the town and the borough.

Councillor Alan Lunt, strategic director for place at Dudley Council, said: "This is a very hugely significant step in our ongoing work to create more jobs and investment in Dudley. The planning application will have to go through the normal process but, if approved, will be one of the biggest investments in Dudley in decades bringing millions of pounds of investment, jobs and much more."

Masterplan

"The development would be part of a wider masterplan of improvements including the multi-million pound Midland Metro extension to Brierley Hill and a revamped bus station in Dudley which will revolutionise public transport for the area."

The applicant is Avenbury Properties.

The rundown 85,880 sq ft office block, once home to the Inland Revenue, has been empty for many years and is standing in the way of ambitious plans to revamp Dudley's bus station.

It must be demolished before work can begin on £50 million plans to redevelop the site, which is also planned to link to the Midland Metro.

Dudley Council leader Patrick Harley earlier this year said the application alone is expected to cost more than £100,000, before funding for the actual demolition. A supermarket, restaurant, shops and homes are envisaged to replace Cavendish House in a development known as Porter's Field, expected to bring 500 jobs to Dudley.

Councillor Harley said he was looking forward to the demolition, adding: "Once that happens, then we can get on with the rest of Dudley and everything will fit into place."

Managing director William Cole said: "It is with great sadness and a very heavy heart that I have taken the decision to begin the process of closing down our store. After considering all possible options, we know this is the right course of action."

Mr Cole said the death of his father and an 'extremely challenging' market were factors behind the closure.

Force recruit specials after four year gap

WEST Midlands Police are recruiting volunteer police officers to their Special Constabulary for the first time in four years.

Recruitment opened last week as the force seek to boost numbers to support both day-to-day policing, as well as major events coming to the region in the next few years. It is the force's first step towards getting ready for the Commonwealth Games in 2020 and volunteerswill play a huge part in delivering a safe, secure and enjoyable event.

The force is looking to recruit specials and volunteers from all the diverse communities across the West Midlands.

Chris Thurley, assistant director in people and organisation development, said: "Our special constables are a huge part of the West Midlands Police family. Last year they volunteered over 30,000 hours to support the service we offer the public.

"They are integral members of our neighbourhood teams, our front line response teams, helping to support our most vulnerable victims in public protection, force CID, operations, motorway policing – the opportunities are endless. We are looking to increase our number as we gear up for some of the biggest events to be seen in the West Midlands, like Coventry becoming City of Culture in 2021 and, of course, Birmingham hosting the Commonwealth Games in 2022."

Mike Rogers, head of special constabulary, a lawyer and property developer, said: "It looks good on the CV, and helps expand and develop your skills." Closing dates for applications is Sunday. Visit jobs.west-midlands.police.uk website.

Jail for robbers foiled by shop customers

By John Scott

THREE raiders have been jailed after their robbery of a shop was foiled by brave customers.

Stuart Dublin, aged 36 and 51-year-old Carl Cina were masked and armed with an iron bar when they burst into the One Stop shop in Worcester Street, Stourbridge.

They grabbed £662 cash and filled a bin bag with £75 worth of cigarettes as a 10-year-old customer watched, Wolverhampton Crown Court was told. Get-away driver Delroy Nettleford, 53, was waiting in a stolen Volvo. But then Mr Pardeep Singh entered the shop, telling the robbers: 'You are not going anywhere.'

Mr Rupert Jones, prosecuting, explained that in the altercation that followed Cina had his nose broken and had several teeth knocked out while Dublin was left with ear damage by a punch as other customers, Julian Hodges and William Croft, helped Mr Singh detain the robbers until police arrived. Nettleford drove off but was stopped and arrested by officers soon afterwards.

The three robbers had been drinking and taking drugs before raiding the shop at 10pm on September 1. They all had previous convictions.

Miss Katie Fox, defending, said the 'inept' robbery had been planned at the last minute by drug-addled minds.

Dublin, of Blowers Green Road, Nettleford, of Stourbridge Road, both Dudley, and Cina, of Stourbridge Road, Brierley Hill, each admitted robbery and theft. Cina also pleaded guilty to a drug offence and breaching a suspended sentence. Cina was jailed for four years, Dublin was for two years four months and Nettleford for two years three months.

Judge James Burbidge QC ordered the 'significant public spirited conduct' of Mr Singh be recognised with a £250 payment from the High Sheriff's funds.

The tug of history at museum gathering

Canal boats at the Black Country Living Museum, which will host the Tug Boats Gathering this weekend

ONE of the largest tug boat gatherings in the country is set to take place in Dudley over the Bank Holiday weekend.

The Black Country Living Museum will be celebrating the legacy of the canal network with a weekend of hands-on crafts, activities and fascinating talks.

From the 1920s onwards, tug boats with their diesel engines were used to navigate the hundreds of miles of canals in the Black Country, pulling large amounts of cargo.

Visitors to the museum will be invited to step back in time and see the rare boats put through their paces.

Each tug boat is capable of pulling up to 200 tons. Tim Shields, curator of industry and transport at the Tipton Road attraction, said: "Canals and boats are now associated with pleasure and leisure, but they once played a vital role in making the Black Country – and indeed the Midlands – what it is today. We want to offer visitors the chance to step back in time and experience this long lost way of life, the culture and art that came with it."

Events will run from Saturday to Bank Holiday Monday, between 10am and 5pm. May 7 also marks the museum's annual May Day celebrations with traditional may pole dancing. Visit www.bclm.com for details.

Teenager attacked partner's ex-boyfriend

A TEENAGER who twice launched unprovoked attacks on his partner's ex-boyfriend has been ordered to pay his victim £2,000 in compensation.

A judge told 19-year-old Luke Rogers: "You thoroughly deserve to go to prison." But he gave him a suspended sentence that saw the defendant compensate Connor Hart for his injuries and for damage to his car.

Rogers, of Bluebell Road, Dudley, was sentenced to a total of 19 months detention for the two attacks, suspended for 18 months and was ordered to carry out 120 hours unpaid work as well as paying Mr Hart.

The first assault took place on May 6 last year when Rogers spotted his partner's ex outside her address and struck him a couple of times through the open window of the victim's vehicle. Wolverhampton Crown Court heard Mr Hart suffered a cut to the head while the car was dented and a wing mirror damaged.

The second attack took place a month later, on June 12, following a chance encounter in Dudley. Mr Nicolas Burn, prosecuting, said Rogers punched Mr Hart in the face twice and kicked him to the head three or four times as he lay on the ground.

Mr Stephen Hamblett, defending, said Rogers was still with the girl who had been the subject of the rivalry. They had a baby and Rogers has since found a job.

He pleaded guilty to two assaults, causing actual bodily harm, and one count of criminal damage. Judge James Burbidge, QC, told Rogers he lacked maturity.

Merger of shops giants is halted

THE merger of the owners of Merry Hill shopping centre and Birmingham's Bull Ring and Grand Central will definitely not go ahead.

Last week the board of shopping centres group Hammerson withdrew its recommendation that its shareholders vote in favour of its all-share offer for Intu Properties. Hammerson's offer was conditional on the approval of its shareholders and Intu has decided there is now no realistic prospect that this condition would be satisfied.

Intu group company secretary Susan Marsden said the board had determined not to proceed.

"The board of Intu is entirely confident of Intu's stand-alone commercial future and prospects," added Mrs Marsden.

Broken Or Damaged Windows? Faulty Locks, Handles, Hinges! f t

Attacks on ambulance staff are increasing

ATTACKS on ambulance staff in the West Midlands have almost doubled in five years with just 20 per cent of offenders punished.

West Midlands Ambulance Service workers suffered 325 physical assaults in 2017/18, up from 175 in 2012/13.

But of the 1,597 attacks across the six years, just 20 per cent led to police or court action, 324 cases. Civil actions such as warning letters were sent out in 10 per cent of the cases, 158.

The figures have come from union GMB, which has compiled the number of attacks from all ambulance services in the country. They also rose 34 per cent in the five years.

Examples of violent attacks reported by GMB members include being bitten, stabbed and having blood spat at them by drug users.

This came ahead of a vote by MPs on tougher sentences for attacks on emergency workers. The Assaults on Emergency Workers (Offences) Bill would introduce a new offence of common assault against an emergency worker and require courts to treat attacks on emergency workers as an aggravating factor for sentencing.

A survey by the union of 500 ambulance staff across the UK also found 37 per cent had considered leaving their job due to the threat of violence and 21 per cent had to take sick leave due to violent assaults.

Ball had licence to thrill award-winners

Mayor Dave Tyler and his wife Barbara

A JAMES Bond themed ball and awards night raised more than £4,000 for the Mayor of Dudley's charities.

The annual Mayor's Ball and Civic Awards was attended by more than 300 people at the Copthorne Hotel, in Brierley Hill.

The themed event, sponsored by Excel 2000 Windows, helped to raise £4,295 which will be split between the Mayor's three charities – Dudley Mind, YMCA Black Country Group and Dudley Alzheimer's Society.

A host of businesses, civic dignitaries and community group representatives attended the evening, which featured casino tables, raffle, auction, games and entertainment.

Dudley Mayor, Councillor Dave Tyler, said: "I am overjoyed that the ball has raised so much money for my three chosen charities and I would like to extend my sincerest thanks to the businesses, sponsors and all who attended the night for making it possible.

"I would also like to thank all our award winners and nominees, they are all amazing people who help to make our borough a better place."

Those winners, who were each presented with a piece of hand-crafted glassware, included snooker star Reanne Evans, Halesowen in Bloom campaigner Eve O'Connor, long-serving special school worker Maureen Smith, fundraiser Gurcharan Bhujangy, and Captain Andy Peters of Dudley's Army Reserve Centre.

Organisations that received awards included Mary Stevens Hospice, who the public voted to receive the Mayor's Pride of Dudley Award, and famous Dudley confectionary business Teddy Gray's got the business prize.

Closing in on motorists who endanger cyclists

A SAFER driving scheme has rolled out onto the roads in Dudley borough for the first time in the project's two-year history.

Officers from the West Midlands Police Road Harm Reduction unit held the Close Pass scheme in Long Lane, Halesowen.

Undercover officers used a Boardman Hybrid road bike equipped with full HD cameras and walkie-talkies to pick up drivers passing too close to the bike.

But this was more than just a way of dishing out licence points and a fine, say police chiefs, who, with the help of the fire service, instead gave on-the-spot advice to those caught.

A special mat was set up to deliver a lesson to motorists about the distance recommended to keep cyclists safe – which, according to Pc Steve Hudson, is the width of a lorry door.

Pc Hudson said: "It is not about going after drivers and it is not about prosecuting or persecuting. It is about education and driver awareness and cycling awareness.

Behaviour

"Before we started this scheme we spent over two years with cycling groups looking at their behaviour on the road and looking at things that were causing them problems on the road. It is about changing driver behaviour. We want to send that person away thinking 'I am actually now better armed and equipped to deal with a vulnerable road user'.

"I will explain to the motorist that they have passed the cyclist too closely. It is an offence but, instead of sending them away with something that they may not learn from, we want to arm them better to deal with cyclists in the future.

"What generally happens is the longer you drive safely on the road without incident the narrower your field of vision becomes and you become very complacent."

David Viner, from Halesowen Cycling Club, was present to support the scheme. He said: "I think the Close Pass initiative is fantastic. Most motorists overtake cyclists reasonably well but a lot of people just need to be reminded that cyclists do need room on the road."

A WOMAN suspected of trying to snatch three handbags in Dudley has been arrested by police.

Three different women in Dudley town centre were approached on Sunday afternoon (April 22) and had their handbags grabbed but on each occasion a member of the public intervened and saved the victims from having their property stolen.

The incidents were captured on CCTV and the woman was later arrested. The arrest is one of a number made by police in Dudley recently for theft or attempted theft.

Machete thugs in raid on shop

AN ARMED gang threatened a store worker with a machete before beating him up and stealing cigarettes.

Four thugs targeted the Highway Food and Drinks Store in Daisy Street, Coseley.

One of the offenders, carrying the weapon, demanded money from a member of staff. The gang then beat up the terrified worker and punched him several times in the head.

IN MY VIEW

with Mark Andrews

So Prince Louis just what is in a name?

SO Prince Louis it is, then, the latest addition to the Cambridge household. Yes, I know he is named after Louis Mountbatten, the Duke of Edinburgh's uncle murdered by terrorists in 1979, but it doesn't sound right does it? A bit too reminiscent of King Louis XVI of France, perhaps. And things didn't end terribly well for him.

Anyway, I guess that means I will have to wait until next time for one of the Cambridge children to be named with my personal choice, Austin.

Austin Cambridge. A wonderful ring to it, don't you think?

THE moment I saw the picture of Sohail Khan, the rapper turned would-be councillor for Tettenhall, I knew this would be entertaining. Whether it's William Hague's baseball cap or Jeremy Corbyn hanging out with grime stars, there is always something cringeworthy about politicians trying to get "down with da kids". And while I am not familiar with Mr Khan's contribution to the music industry, I would be surprised if it were not more Ali G than Ice.

Now rude-boy Sohail finds himself in hot water, after it emerged he posted a picture of a pistol on Facebook in 2012. Councillor Martin Waite says he is "not fit for office" and is "glamorising gun crime". Oh, gerrover yourself, as we say in the Black Country. These people don't half take themselves seriously, don't they?

If Councillor Waite thinks Mr Khan is glamorising anything whatsoever, he probably needs to get out more. While I don't profess to be entirely representative of da yute in da 'hood, I'm fairly sure there are few things less glamorous than local council politics. Mr Khan has probably done more to de-glamorise guns with his Facebook post than the Home Office has managed in decades. Respect, bruv.

THERE are few people who cannot have been moved by the tragic last days of Alfie Evans, and you have to sympathise with medical staff who, faced with some thankless and difficult decisions, had to deal with a torrent of unwarranted abuse and intimidation.

That said, while it may be right for highly-skilled medics to refuse treatment they believe is not in the interests of the child, the litigation to stop him going to Italy is something else. The NHS is supposed to be about providing health care, not using the legal system to stop sick children going abroad for care if it is what the parents wish. And the NHS surely has more pressing needs for its funds than hiring expensive lawyers.

Lighten up, we need our Royal Family for some things

Kate – denounced by tabloid for looking "too perfect" as she posed with her baby

Farmer Stephen Nolan won a lot of support for his sign about smelly animals

Master Sergeant Robin Brown sacked after dinosaur hand-puppet incident

But who would plant all those saplings . . .

THERE was some speculation that William and Kate's little boy who arrived this week might have been overdue and born late. A republican reader asks: "Late for what?" He goes on to say uncharitable things about this privileged little chap being able to look forward to 80 years or more spent doing absolutely nothing of any consequence. Oh, lighten up. If it wasn't for our Royal Family, who would plant all those saplings, watch all that ethnic dancing and draw apart the little curtains to reveal all those plaques?

THE Duchess of Cambridge appears outside the clinic with her newborn prince and is denounced by one tabloid for looking "too perfect." How can normal mums, with no nannies or hairdressers on call, expect to look so lovely? Listen. As any David Icke fan and conspiracy theorist knows, the Windsors are not humans but giant, shape-shifting lizards. We should be thankful that Kate merely looked radiant and did not come down the clinic steps as a rampaging komodo dragon clutching a large egg.

THE BBC describes a breakthrough in laboratory-grown food as "the veggie burger that bleeds when you cut it." Coming soon – mushrooms that scream when you peel 'em.

'TIS the season to be painting. As I may have pointed out earlier, some paint names convey little about the colour in the tin. From one leading range we have discovered Overtly Olive, Sophisticated Sage and the deeply enigmatic Wellbeing.

I WAS skinning a brontosaurus outside my cave the other day when the news came in of the TSB online-banking catastrophe. I admitted in this column some months ago that I had never dabbled with internet banking because I have no desire to link my worldly wealth to the dark forest of thieves we call cyberspace. I was promptly denounced by one reader as a cave man. This week I would rather be a cave man than a TSB online banker, thanks.

THE BEST OF PETER RHODES

MY piece on blood-pressure reminds a reader of an appointment with his GP when his pressure readings were a bit high. The doctor suggested he should relax, sit down for 10 minutes and read a newspaper. It was the Daily Mail. As he puts it: "You can guess the rest."

CONFUSING headlines of our time: "Man bitten by shark previously attacked by bear and snake." (Sky News).

I CAME across a brief report that Bill and Sylvia Bennett of Kidderminster have celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary. It said that Bill spent D-Day, June 6, 1944 on a "secret operation" on the Normandy beaches. There was much more to it than that. I met Bill, 91, on a pilgrimage to Normandy some years ago and his D-Day story was astonishing. For a start he was only 18, a Merchant Navy lad put into Royal Navy uniform for the invasion. Secondly, working under enemy fire on the Pluto undersea pipeline at Gold Beach, he was not given any sort of weapon. Thirdly, having helped a wounded comrade to safety, he got a Mentioned in Dispatches for bravery and good conduct. He told me: "I don't remember any of us talking about being scared, we just got on with it." All sorts of great deeds were done in the Normandy Campaign but how many D-Day teenagers went ashore without even a gun and ended the day with an award for gallantry? I would not mind betting that Bill Bennett's D-Day was unique. I wish Bill and Sylvia every happiness.

MASTER Sergeant Robin Brown thought she'd enliven the US National Guard oath of allegiance by using a dinosaur hand-puppet to recite the words, Sooty-and-Sweep style. Unsurprisingly, she and two colleagues who took part in the gag have been sacked. What is surprising is that Brown served in the public-affairs office. Despite all the media training, she forgot the first rule of public relations. Wherever you are and whatever you're about to do, just pause, remind yourself that you live in a world where there are no longer any secrets and ask the question: how's this gonna look in the papers?

A LANCASHIRE farmer, Stephen Nolan, has won much support for erecting a sign pointing out that, among other things, farm animals "make funny sounds, smell bad and have sex outdoors." Unless you can tolerate all this, he says, then don't buy a property next to a farm. Which all sounds perfectly reasonable. Except that in my experience when people suddenly start complaining about farm smells it isn't always because they're newly-arrived snowflake townies who can't abide old-fashioned muck. Sometimes they are long-term country dwellers living close to a farmer who's just drenched his fields in pig or poultry slurry, or some other vile-smelling by-product of industrialised agriculture, and is playing the "townie" card rather than doing the decent thing and apologising.

TALKING POINT

We should be spitting mad over vile habit

REGULAR readers will have noticed that this column never shies away from any subject, serious or trivial, but there is one topic that is long overdue – spitting in public.

For whatever reason, there seems to be a creeping acceptability of this revolting habit, whether it be in the street, or open spaces such as parks, and railway station platforms.

Years ago, although smoking was allowed on the upper deck of buses, there was invariably a Spitting Prohibited sign to remind passengers that this was most definitely banned.

Birmingham rock 'n' roller Steve Gibbons even wrote a song, 'No Spitting On The Bus', in which he says boredom and disillusionment can never be used as an excuse.

That was in the 1970s but today there is another factor to consider – aggression. Health service workers are often targeted by spitting yobs for no other reason, it seems, than to get the upper hand.

On the football pitch, spitting is deemed to be one of the most serious misdemeanours when aimed at an opponent, yet many a TV camera has captured instances of phlegm being deposited on the turf, very often in glorious close-up.

Earlier this year while at the wheel of his car ex-footballer Jamie Carragher called on all his spitting 'skills' when goaded by another driver and spat in the direction of a 14-year-old girl. Thanks to the dubious merits of social media, this was viewed hundreds of thousands of times, and yes, if you have not had the misfortune to see the incident, it is as disgusting as you might imagine.

Alongside spitting, there's another custom which seems to be becoming the norm, much more rapidly than spitting, and that is regularly sniffing when a good blow of the nose would cure the problem. What is so very difficult about buying a cheap box of handkerchiefs or pocket tissues and clearing the tubes once and for all?

And then there's coughing into one's 'rolled up' hand, which experts will tell you acts as a blowpipe capable of sending germs flying even further, or worse still not using your hand at all. Much better to cough into your upright palm, which acts as a barrier to flying bacteria.

It's all a matter of education. Over a relatively short time, we have come to accept that dog mess must be picked up, and smoking is no longer permitted in public places, so how about an intense public information campaign?

Perhaps that man Mr Gibbons could write a follow-up titled 'No Spitting . . . Anywhere'. You tell 'em, Steve.

Venue needs to find a change of use

The Dudley Hippodrome has been the subject of much controversy ever since it closed. Why was it closed?

Because times change and no amount of wishful thinking from a group of well-wishers will change that. I do wish things were different.

Modern entertainment is loud and banal. There are no great comedians these days, foul-mouthed, unshaven trainer-clad persons being the norm, with not a funny bone between them. Musicals seem to be of the Lloyd Webber type and music hall is dead.

Perhaps the Jehovah's Witnesses might take the hall over as an overflow to its magnificent building opposite?

At least the Hippodrome would survive, and that surely is the object of the support group? However, they should hasten along and do something before the building becomes past it.

Parliament should not be bypassed

ALL civilised countries have seen the dreadful outcome of a chemical attack launched on the innocent people of Syria.

This is not the first time this criminal regime has done this to its own people. These acts of inhumanity can be compared to the worst acts of atrocity in human history.

It is important that our government has the courage to pronounce that those involved will be held accountable for their unforgiveable actions. What we do in response to this murderous act needs the support of the country. Mrs May should not have acted without the support of Parliament, this issue is so important the House needs to approve any actions taken.

So is pocket money cash suspect now?

I WONDER how many more of your readers have been amazed as I was today?

With two grandchildren living some distance away I hold their building society bank books in order to pay a small amount of pocket money in from time to time.

Their parents are then able to sort out what they wish to buy with this money or to save it for them.

The building society cashier informed me that I cannot pay cash into their accounts at a branch, only the parents can do this and money laundering was mentioned. Well, I for one wouldn't know the first thing about this practice, nor do I want to know.

Whoever thought up this crackpot idea gets my jobsworth vote.

We must be realistic on Hippodrome

I, like Marlene Watson (Chronicle, April 19), would like to see Dudley Hippodrome re-opened, but one has to be realistic. After a couple of pop concerts and maybe a local amateur show, what would fill the theatre for the rest of the year? Television closed the theatre and now home bingo has done the same.

Hall gardens open in aid of church wall repairs

George Williams on the grounds of his family home, Envile Hall, which will be opening to the public on Sunday

THE glorious gardens at a stately home near Stourbridge will be opening to the public on Sunday to raise funds towards restoration work at a village church.

Envile Hall owners, Peter and Diana Williams, aim to raise at least £1,000 for St Mary's Church after the churchyard's retaining wall collapsed.

Repair work has already begun next to the A458 road.

Rev Martin Soar said: "Peter and Diana are always really supportive of the church. The funds being raised are fantastic.

"The community of Envile village has always been very supportive alongside Kinver and the Black Country. I am really grateful to everyone who will support the event and it is a lovely time of year to have it."

George Williams, Peter and Diana's son and assistant estate manager, said: "We are hoping to get enough people to help pay off any repairs at the church, which needs roughly £20,000."

The 10 acres of gardens will be open between 1pm and 5pm and refreshments will be available. Admission is £5, under-16s free.

Uncle and aunt will keep siblings together

"IT was an intense decision – but we had to step up and do what we could."

Those are the words of a selfless uncle who moved to the Black Country after a tragic double blow which saw his five nephews orphaned.

Gift Mpedzisi and his partner Ziyanda Mhambi quit their jobs and ended the lease on their home in Liverpool to start a new life in Tip-ton after Gift's five nephews were orphaned when their mother and father both died from cancer within five weeks of each other.

Sister

Makeda Ubiaro – Gift's sister – died in July, with her husband Omena passing away at the start of September from the same disease.

In a heartbreaking video posted online from his hospital bed just days before his death, Mr Ubiaro said cancer was the 'toughest thing' he had ever had to face.

It left his sons Khariis, Josiah,

Cairo, Ramiyah and Macaiah facing a future without either of their parents and with the possibility they would be split up and taken into foster care.

But Gift, 33, and his 36-year-old Ziyanda partner decided to do whatever they could to allow the boys to stay together as a family unit.

That involved Gift quitting his degree at university in Liverpool and transferring to a criminology and law course at the University of Wolverhampton.

While Ziyanda, who is now pregnant, also left a full-time job to move south to look after the boys.

The couple have now been honoured with this year's Pride of Tip-ton award.

Gift explained: "They grew up together as a family. I didn't want them to be split up."

"We had to step up and do what we could. They needed somebody to look after them for their wellbeing and safeguarding."

Vaccinations drive as more than 100 cases of measles confirmed

MORE than 100 cases of measles have been confirmed in the West Midlands prompting a fresh appeal for parents to keep youngsters up to date with vaccinations.

Since the end of October, there has been an ongoing outbreak of the disease, believed to be linked to similar situations in large parts of Europe including Italy and Romania. Public Health England says there is an increased risk of infection for all who are not fully immunised with two doses of MMR.

Uptake rates vary from 87 per cent of five-year-olds in Wolverhampton to 91.7 per cent in Staffordshire. While 88.7 per cent of youngsters in Sandwell have received both MMR vaccine doses compared with 89.5 per cent in Walsall and 92.2 per cent in Dudley.

Katie Spence, Director of PHE West Midlands Health Protection Team, said: "There are now just over 100 lab-confirmed cases in the region with figures still rising. There are also outbreaks in other parts of the country, so increased risk of infection for all who are not fully immunised with two doses of MMR."

"Measles is a highly infectious virus which can spread rapidly among communities, such as schools. While most people who catch measles will recover completely within a couple of weeks, it's important to remember measles can be a very serious illness that can leave permanent disability and occasionally even kill."

No let up as police target gang members

POLICE officers have vowed not to let up in their fight against violent crime after gang members were jailed for more than 70 years.

A total of 10 people linked to gangs operating across Birmingham and the Black Country were handed jail terms totalling more than 70 years in the past two months.

Jamie Wood, from Wasdale Road, Northfield, who featured in grime videos made by South Birmingham gang the Frankley Killers, is the latest to be locked up after he received almost four years behind bars.

The 23-year-old's sentence comes after Organised Crime and Gang Unit detectives recovered film he had recorded on a mobile phone of a man firing a shotgun at the home of a rival gang member. He did not pull the trigger but was still sent to prison after officers showed that he orchestrated the attack.

Yusupha Sarr – fired shotgun

Firefight

Earlier this month teenage gunman Yusupha Sarr was locked up for 15 years after being involved in a gangland firefight on a Smethwick street. The former professional footballer, aged 19 – linked to the Birmingham street gang 23 Drillas – fired a sawn-off shotgun twice as a man armed with a revolver ran towards him, Wolverhampton Crown Court was told.

Armed police were nearby after being warned gang members would be attending an 18th birthday party held in the area and moved in to arrest Sarr, from Church Green in Handsworth, in August last year.

In February Jamaal Scarlett and Courtney Farrell were jailed for 16 and nine years, respectively, for possessing firearms and ammunition after detectives uncovered messages linking them with organised crime. Gang members Jamaal Ahmed and Reece Brevitt were also jailed, while a 16-year-old boy was sent to a young offenders institute for three years.

Chief Inspector Nick Dale said: "Many of these successes have been in part been thanks to information provided by members of the public who had suspicions about individuals, drug dealing or possession of weapons. They called us in confidence, we acted on what they told us and together we are helping to make communities safer."

"Many of these men were lured into gangs as teenagers. They are sold it as an attractive, lucrative way of life but many now see their lives wrecked by long prison sentences."

"We work with local authorities, support groups and charities to try and divert young people away from crime and gang affiliation but there are those who refuse to cooperate. They face the very real danger of being killed or seriously hurt by rivals or spending many years behind bars."

Man fined for burying 5,000 tons of waste
 A MAN who illegally buried more than 5,000 tons of waste on farmland has been ordered to pay more than £5,000 and told to clear the site.
 Ivor David John Powell, 65, was fined £1,000 after pleading guilty to burying 5,335 tons of mixed waste at Lower Aston Farm, Aston Lane, Claverley. The Environment Agency, which brought the prosecution, said the cost of legally disposing of the waste would have been more than £500,000.
 Wolverhampton Crown Court heard Powell, who had no previous convictions, had been 'naive'. The case was heard on April 19 and Powell was ordered to pay £4,000 costs and a £100 victim surcharge, on top of the £1,000 fine. The court told him to clear the site within three years.

Crime commissioner is calling for action to make cars less easy to steal

A RISE in car crime across the West Midlands – from 5,000 to nearly 10,000 crimes a year – has been described 'an epidemic' by a police boss.

Police and Crime Commissioner David Jamieson made the comment following a summit with car manufacturers.

He asked bosses from BMW, Ford, Nissan, Jaguar Land Rover, Audi and Honda to increase security for their vehicles. And he hit out at Amazon for listing lock picks on its website.

Speaking at a meeting for the strategic crime and policing board, Mr Jamieson said: "The number of vehicles stolen has doubled over the last two years going from 5,000 to nearly 10,000 per year now."

"It is clear that there is organised crime going on here and its causing a huge amount of misery. I renewed my insurance on my car and discovered how it has escalated enormously because we're all paying for this. We are now facing an epidemic."

He wants manufacturers to install extra security on keyless devices.

He added: "We are seeing that vehicles are being electronically stolen, stolen within 20 to 30 seconds from people's drives and off they go."

He claims kit used by gangs to open the cars are available on sale online.

"I have called on the Government to bring in a national register, so that only those who need these devices for legitimate reasons can purchase them."

Dr Steffan George from the Master Locksmiths Association is backing Mr Jamieson in his campaign.

It's child's play for sisters

Jenny Peacock and Claire Hayes with youngsters at the Bridge House in New Road, which the two sisters opened recently to cater for children and their parents

A NEW children's play and learning centre, which also offers pampering for parents, has opened in Stourbridge, launched by two sisters.

The Bridge House opened its doors to families in New Road this month and offers classes and activities for children and parents.

The centre, for youngsters under five, has been opened by sisters Claire Hayes, aged 36, and Jenny Peacock, 27, who previously worked as a paediatric occupational therapist and paediatric speech and language therapist respectively.

Bridge House offers families to chance to play, learn, develop and relax with activities including craft and sensory play workshops, and baby yoga.

Claire said: "The centre is predominantly for children under five. My sister and I have started it up together. We had previously run mobile children development classes for three years.

"We are hoping it is a one-stop shop for everything for families. Parents can go to the cafe – and we also have a salon that offers children's hair cuts and pamper sessions for adults."

"We thought the area was kind of lacking something like this. I have got two children myself and this is the kind of thing I wanted when I was on maternity leave – somewhere that's for soft play and classes for their development. It is something I wanted as a mother."

"Our background has always been in child development and we have written and developed some of the classes ourselves."

Businesses in pledge to the young on jobs Car dealer to expand

BUSINESS leaders have pledged to help young people in the West Midlands get better access to jobs and skills.

Representatives from firms and local government met at the new Prince's Trust centre in Digbeth, Birmingham, to discuss action being taken.

Brendan Cook, head of transformation at HSBC UK, and Andy Street, Mayor of the West Midlands, spoke at the event which was hosted by Nick Stace, UK chief executive of youth charity The Prince's Trust, and Michele Farmer, director of Central England at The Prince's Trust.

The event heard that there are a number of events on the horizon for Birmingham and with more businesses, like HSBC UK, moving their head offices to the city, and commitment behind the 'Midlands Engine' is growing.

The event also marked the renewal of the partnership between HSBC UK and The Prince's Trust, who have worked together since 2012. The charity will now be able to dedicate further resources to supporting young people across the UK to develop employability skills. This funding will also support the trust to trial new ways of helping.

A LYE motor dealership is to expand its showroom to meet growing demand and new models coming out this year.

Startin Honda Stourbridge in Stourbridge Road is to have the work done in the first half of this year to enable it to fit in more vehicles. The Startin Honda business, which also has a site in Worcester, is also celebrating its 20th anniversary this year.

The Lye dealership opened to Honda customers in November 2015, previously hosting Hyundai and Ford franchises.

Plug pulled on outing to Chester

Grange (E) Guild

CHAIRMAN Chris Holton presided over the April 10 meeting at St Peter's Centre, Pedmore Lane, Pedmore, and welcomed 27 members and three guests.

She read the minutes from the last meeting which were accepted and duly signed as a true record.

Secretary Sue Wilding reported that unfortunately the outing to Chester had to be cancelled due to the lack of support. She will try to arrange another outing later in the year.

The visit to the Rose Theatre in Kidderminster to see Neighbourhood Watch is booked for May 16. The Federation quiz will be on May 17 and Grange Guild will be entering three teams of four people.

Chris introduced the speaker for the evening, Neil Brazier who gave a talk entitled "Where does a Travel Agent go on holiday?". He gave a guided tour of Turkey, his favourite place. A slide show gave members a very picturesque view and was enjoyed by all. Chris gave the vote of thanks to Neil on members' behalf.

To celebrate Easter hot cross buns were served and the raffle was drawn with three lucky winners. The sales table, which had an Easter theme did very well.

The next meeting will be held at St Peter's Centre on May 8 when Max Keen will give a talk about the history of Dudley Castle. The sales table will consist of biscuits and confectionery.

Speaker shows spirit with ghost stories

Craig Denston with Wendy Meredith and June Weaver

Dudley South Ladies Lunch

MEMBERS were pleased to welcome back chairman Ann Rogers following the loss of her husband Michael. It was good to have a record attendance of 39 members, visitor Dawn Hampton and new member Betty Ross to enjoy an excellent three-course lunch and hear speaker Craig Denston on "Life as a Ghost".

Mr Denston was an actor who also conducted Ghost Tours at Dudley Castle. He showed slides of strange apparitions photographed in the cellars of the Station Hotel, Dudley as well as in the castle. The Ghost Tours started back in 1993 and continue today.

It was a most thought-provoking afternoon. Meetings are on the second Friday each month at The Lodge, Wellington Road, Dudley, at 12.30pm.

At the next meeting on May 11 the St Andrews Singers will entertain and on June 8 the speaker will be John Evans on "Diamonds are the Queen's Best Friend". A visit to Hagley Hall has been arranged on July 18.

Max keen on giving castle talk

CHAIRMAN Geoff Longmore opened the meeting, giving details of the summer programme.

Speaker Max Keen, a retired Amblecote Primary teacher, gave a talk on Dudley Castle 1071-1933. He dressed as Anselm de Piquigny, a French baron who followed William the Conqueror to England and played a significant role in the invasion of England.

He was awarded some 80 manors spread over 11 counties and in 1070 was granted

Amblecote History Society

lands in the West Midlands, including Dudley, where he built the castle.

On May 9, Andrew Lound and actress Penelope Ferguson will carry out a dramatic performance telling the story of the Great War through the eyes of generic soldier Tommy Atkins, from a series of letters written to his wife Alice.

Lakes look at driverless pods

SELF-DRIVING vehicles made in Dudley are being considered as a sustainable transport alternative for the Lake District.

A driverless 'pod' made by Kingswinford's Westfield Technology Group has been taken to Brockhole, between Ambleside and Windermere, as part of an exercise to gain public feedback.

The Lake District National Park is the first national park and UNESCO World Heritage Site to take part in such a feasibility study with Westfield.

The national park is exploring new technologies which allow people to access the national park in an environmentally sustainable way.

Business bosses are concerned at proposal for travellers site

BOSSES have spoken out against plans to build a £280,000 travellers transit site near their firms.

Dudley Council proposals would see the official travellers site created on Budden Road in Coseley, to help lower the number of illegal encampments. But the director of a neighbouring steel fabricating firm has said he was 'appalled'.

David Springthorpe, managing director of Angle Ring, said: "I am absolutely appalled that as an immediate neighbour to the site we were not notified directly by Dudley Council about the planning application.

"I am certain that if as a company we applied for planning permission, and more than 50 local residents objected, then our planning application would be rejected."

Chris Hickman, director of South Staffordshire Industries, said: "The site does not satisfy Dudley Council's own selection criteria for a temporary travellers site. Their guidelines clearly state 'sites on the edge of industrial or residential areas are preferred to sites in the middle of such areas' and the proposed site in Budden Road is surrounded by residential and commercial properties.

"During the mid-1990s we suffered increased crime and other issues when the site was used illegally by travellers and we certainly don't want a repeat of those events."

Dudley Council's Alan Lunt, a strategic director, said the council had been 'open and transparent' about plans to establish a transit site.

Cars targeted by thieves in flood

YOUTHS were spotted by firefighters trying to break into vehicles stranded in the severe flooding in Wednesbury last week.

It took place as crews worked to ensure people were safe as water levels rose due the dramatic water main burst in Leabrook Road.

There were also reports of children throwing stones into the floodwater, close to where firefighters were working.

Around 60 firefighters, including specialist water rescue teams, rushed to the scene at around 10am on Thursday. Around 10 million litres of water – the same as four Olympic-sized swimming pools – turned streets into a lake up to 9ft deep after Western Power Distribution workers damaged the mains.

Dan the banjo man has folk club gig

Banjo man Dan Walsh is coming to Kingswinford

ACCLAIMED banjo man Dan Walsh is coming to a Kingswinford folk club as part of a mammoth tour promoting the release of his Verging On The Perpendicular album.

BBC Folk Awards nominee Walsh's UK tour will see the launch of the all new Dan Walsh Trio - featuring award-winning fiddler Ciaran Algar and long-time collaborator Nic Zuppari on mandolin.

Although favourites the Stafford musician's highly-praised albums will be in the set, the gigs are to be mostly shaped around new material. At the heart of the trio's sound is British, Irish and American folk music delivered with a healthy dose of funky grooves.

Lively

Next Friday, May 11, he will be at the Woodman Folk Club, Ashwood Marina, Kingswinford. The show is at 8.30pm and tickets cost £8/£9. Call (01384) 560462 or go to www.woodmanfolk.co.uk for tickets and details.

"It'll be a very lively show with lots of blistering tunes but also some more reflective moments and some new songs we're really pleased with," says Dan.

"I've been travelling all over this year and I spent the first two and a half months of the year on tour in Australia and New Zealand. It'll be great to be back home."

Concerns raised over plans for new homes

CAMPAIGNERS fear disruption caused by new homes being built on sites in Tipton will impact people's quality of life.

Plans were backed recently by Sandwell Council for dozens of homes on three parcels of land in Princes End. But concerns were raised about the scheme with people claiming there has been a lack of consultation.

Councillors say the new homes are much needed in the area.

In total, 63 homes will be built on council-owned sites bordered by Strathmore Road, Kingsbury Road, Sandgate Road, Ridgeway Road and Henn Street.

One of piece of land was the site of Swancroft House and another was Glebefields House, both facilities for the elderly. These have both been cleared. The third site was grassed open space.

A decision will be made by the full council.

HOME OWNERS AGED 50+

Protect your home from future care home fees

Does this sound familiar to you?

"We've made our Wills, leaving everything to each other first and then to the children."

These are known as Mirror Wills. Sounds reassuring enough, doesn't it? But your children could end up with very little - or even nothing at all.

If your surviving spouse has to go into care, they will have to use their assets to pay for their care until they get down to their last £14,250. Therefore, it's not a good idea to leave your half share of the home to your surviving partner but instead leave them the USE of your share. This can be achieved by making new Property Trust Wills.

These legitimate steps must be taken while you are both alive and in reasonably good mental health. It is therefore important for couples to act NOW!

Most of our clients come to us having already made standard Mirror Wills, or they've been meaning to make a Will but simply haven't got around to it. With Property Trust Wills, yourself and your spouse/partner each leave your half share of the home to the children in Trust, but state that they are not to receive it during the lifetime of the surviving spouse/partner.

This half would then NOT be included in any future means test calculations for care fees. The surviving spouse is free to sell their share of the home, raise cash or move house. Your children are powerless to intervene but simply have to wait for their inheritance, as they would have done previously.

Ted seen with his wife Linda in the countryside

Son's book is poignant tale of Ted the singer

The famous video clip of the carpool karaoke session SINGALONG sensation Ted McDermott took the internet by storm when he and his son Simon sang carpool karaoke to millions online.

The Black Country-born pensioner, aged 80, lives with dementia but music helps him get back to his old self.

Now Simon, 42, has released a book about his dad's life in the 1940s as the eldest of 14 children in Friar Park, Wednesbury. The Songamminute Man, which was published this month, is a nostalgic memoir and heart-breaking account of a son struggling to come to terms with his father's dementia.

Everything changed for the pair when Simon turned the ignition on in his mother's car, hitting play on his father's favourite song Quando Quando Quando and they were driving around Blackburn – where they live now – singing at the top of their voices.

Simon filmed their adventure, uploaded the video to YouTube and woke up to messages, tweets and his phone ringing off the hook.

But despite landing a record deal, a Pride of Britain award, more than £130,000 raised for The Alzheimer's Society and a top 10 single, Simon was still 'losing' Ted.

He said: "I wanted to tell our story of dementia. We had a bad few years with dad's aggression and violence after he was diagnosed. I also wanted to write about how it affects the carers."

Set in the heart of the Black Country just before the Second World War, and written with the help of Ted's friends and family, The Songamminute Man recalls a boy who became a gutsy and fiercely loyal man. It recalls a childhood of sleeping top-to-toe, rationing, adventure in the woods and making-do-and-mending, a close-knit community, and a life-long passion for music. It is a celebration of the man Ted was, and a powerful and moving account of caring for a loved one. Simon added: "I didn't just want to write about dad and his dementia. It was important for me to tell his full story."

By Tom Oakley

Ted was a performer throughout his life – he was a Butlin's Redcoat and then travelled around the country singing in clubs.

Simon said: "He worked in factories, but did promotions at Walsall football club and then gigging with Midlands group The Starliners. I interviewed his old bandmate Ben Beards who lives in Bilston."

"I decided to write his entire life story to basically show who he was, where he came from, his hopes and fears, passions and loves before the Alzheimer's struck. I guess the book is also my own personal therapy. You could say Alzheimer's took dad away but it also brought him back in that it gave me the opportunity to discover who he really was and what made him tick. The only tragedy is that he will never truly understand how many fans he has."

Working Hard for our Borough –
All Year Round

Cllr Pete Lowe, Leader of Dudley Labour Group Flying the Black Country Flag with pride

We have a great Borough. We are the Borough that lit the fires of the Industrial Revolution and we continue to make a huge contribution to the West Midlands.

We need a council and local councillors that will work hard and look after the interests of all our communities.

A Labour Council in Dudley will continue to build on the success when we were last in control such as securing the metro, regenerating our towns, making education and skills the number one priority and continuing to support our fantastic tourist attractions which are some of the best in the West Midlands to attract more visitors and stimulate the economy.

Our community led Labour Council will put you as residents at the heart of everything we do and won't let you down like the Tories and UKIP have.

A Clear Vision for Our Borough

PUTTING COMMUNITIES FIRST

A Labour Council will;

■ REGENERATION AND TOURISM Promote Dudley Borough as the historic capital of the Black Country to increase tourism and create jobs, including retaining all existing free parking and introducing free evening parking to boost the night time economy.

■ ENVIRONMENT Make full use of powers to enforce action against those who affect the quality of our environment, including fly tipping, dog fouling and anti-social behaviour and reinvest fines collected back into improving our streets.

■ HOUSING Take tough action against rogue landlords who put profit before people, increase social and affordable housing and implement the Housing First initiative in our communities to address the issues of homelessness and rough sleeping.

■ WASTE COLLECTIONS Retain weekly bin collections and free green waste collections and continue to increase the amount we recycle, protecting the environment for future generations.

■ EDUCATION AND SKILLS Establish Dudley as a centre of excellence for business, education and skills for all ages. We will also ensure all large contractors used by Dudley Council provide apprenticeships for young people.

■ HEALTH AND SOCIAL CARE Ensure health and social care providers adopt a joined up approach, providing support to whole communities, especially the most vulnerable, when needed.

■ ROAD INVESTMENT Establish and monitor a pot-hole reporting line and use available funds to repair speedily while lobbying for a fairer funding deal that will bring much needed investment to Dudley's crumbling road network.

We're Crazy For an all-dancing musical

You can't beat glorious Gershwin, and the composer has no greater fan than Tom Chambers, who's fulfilling a teenage dream by starring in the musical Crazy For You.

By the time the curtain came down on a production of Crazy For You in the early 1990s, the then-15-year-old Tom Chambers knew his heart lay in performing. "It was the very first live musical I ever saw on stage and it just filled me with so much entertainment and wonder. It was amazing to see what they did with the theatre space and how the story was told. It was the only bit of theatre which truly inspired me."

In a career which has featured a number of crazy twists of fate as well as some fantastic roles, Tom is relishing the chance to recapture that teenage dream and play the lead role in the production, which plays Wolverhampton Grand Theatre from Tuesday until May 12.

He plays Bobby, a banker sent to close down a failing theatre who falls for the daughter of the building's proprietor. Determined to win her heart, he adopts the guise of a Hungarian impresario in order to save the theatre and win her heart.

And so, the stage is set for an all-singing, all-dancing story set to a Gershwin soundtrack which includes the likes of They Can't Take That Away From Me, Bidin' My Time and, of course, I've Got Rhythm.

Tom admits he always had a bit of a performing instinct from rattling his feet on the kitchen floor at home from a very young age, and then enjoying watching black-and-white films starring the likes of Gene Kelly. But it was a school play that saw him tread the boards for the first time.

He laughs: "I was playing football during a school break and the English teacher, who was directing the play, said no-one had auditioned for it so there was a compulsory three o'clock audition. I ended up getting the title role in Dracula Spectacular. I loved that relationship recognition between the audience and I. It was fantastic making them respond."

Drama school followed which included a stint understudying Keith Chegwin in the pantomime Cinderella at Basingstoke ("It is one of my claims to fame"), and his first job after leaving was a Spanish TV ad for Kit Kat. Tom says: "I thought this is great. I am going to get non-stop work," but things did not quite work out like that. He had to turn down a role in The Bill because they needed an HGV driver although Tom has now got his Class One lorry-driving licence in common with Chris Eubank.

And when he turned down a role in the tour of Bob The Builder, his agent fired him leaving him in a quandary about what to do next. He enjoyed some success with the movie Fakers which was privately financed and enjoyed a limited cinema release but the work was drying up.

So, he took one final shot at success by aiming to get onto the Royal Variety Performance in the days before Britain's Got Talent and YouTube. He said: "I wrote a letter suggesting I do a Fred Astaire routine on a drum kit and I thought that might appeal, with me tap dancing and kicking drums at the same time. They said get it ready and I spent nine-and-a-half months doing just that. A few weeks beforehand, they then got in touch and said we now have everyone we need. We don't want you, which was a blow.

"So I got in touch with my old school and asked if I could perform it on their stage in the holidays and I got it filmed in black and white. I had 1,000 DVDs made of it sending 400 to America and sent 600 out in this country to theatre owners, directors and TV producers asking if they were doing anything connected to Fred Astaire and, if so, could I have a chat?"

Only two people came back. One was a theatre producer organising a one-night Fred and Ginger tribute, while Tom said the other was an audition for BBC medical drama Holby City. "The producers just thought it was so unusual. They were looking for someone to play an American doctor for two episodes. As Fred Astaire was American, they thought I was too and wanted to get me in. I went to the audition and they said 'where have you been all these years?'"

From there he won the part of Sam Strachan in the hit sister show to Casualty staying in the role for three years as the fiercely-driven doctor who also had a bit of a roving eye.

And it was his role on there that led him into Strictly Come Dancing where he partnered Camilla Dallerup, winning the coveted glitterball. Looking back on his time on the Saturday night TV hit, he admits a lot of it is a blur. Tom explains: "People ask if I can do a quick step or a samba. I have to explain that I had a five-day intense workout on each of those routines. It is such a quick short-term memory injection and that is it. It was a bit like doing a marathon. You do step-by-step doing a couple of miles at a time and you look back and you don't know how you did it. It is the same with Strictly. Your body naturally gets used to physical exertion and a daily workout but it is the brain that suffers most because of trepidation, fear and anxiety. You are just learning so much. You just go in front of the cameras and the audience and give it your all. I look back now. If I watch anything online of one of our dances, I am looking at it as if I am watching someone else. At the time, you are performing, your brain is just in flight mode."

And now it is Crazy For You which is set to take up the rest of his year. "I think Crazy For You has the absolutely perfect balance of humour, story and singing. There are so many musicals that are heavy on just one element but this show has the perfect combination of everything. It is a bit like the show dance on Strictly with everything slotting into place in the right order." ANDY RICHARDSON

Singer-songwriter Don McLean

My my it's Mr American Pie at Symphony Hall

PROLIFIC American songwriter Don McLean will visit Birmingham's Symphony Hall next Thursday, May 10, as part of a 14-date UK tour with Nashville star, Jarrod Dickenson.

The show follows the release of McLean's new album 'Botanical Gardens' in March. With more than 40 gold and platinum records worldwide, Don McLean is one of America's most beloved singer-songwriters. Botanical Gardens, his 19th studio album and first in eight years, is arguably one of his most reflective to date.

Don says: "The inspiration for the project started years ago when I would walk in the beautiful gardens in Sydney, Australia, near the Opera House. I would dream young dreams and it was a comfort and an inspiration. I was always young inside, like we all are, and I felt it again there."

In nearly 50 years on the scene, Don's songs have become a staple in Americana music. His music has been performed by artists as diverse as Elvis Presley, Madonna, Fred Astaire, Chet Atkins, Weird Al Yankovic, George Michael, Josh Groban, Coolio and Ed Sheeran. His biggest hit 'American Pie' was inducted into the Grammy Hall of Fame in 2003.

Joining Don on tour by request is Jarrod Dickenson. The Nashville-based, Texas-born musician has already supported acts ranging from Bonnie Raitt to The Stylistics, and he counts himself among McLean's fans, saying: "His contribution to popular music and the craft of song writing can't be overstated."

McIntyre is making merry on world tour

He's become one of the most popular British comics of all time.

Michael McIntyre will return to Birmingham for his latest run of shows - Big World Tour - with dates at the city's Arena from next Thursday, May 10, to May 13.

The star has already sold more than 1.5 million tickets in the UK.

By 2012 he was the highest grossing comedian in the world and, in addition to stand-up, has hosted his own BBC One TV shows, Michael McIntyre's Comedy Roadshow and Michael McIntyre's Big Show, has featured in Live at the Apollo and, in 2011, was a judge on Britain's Got Talent.

He is looking forward to getting back on stage. "I'm so excited about it. Stand-up comedy is what I do, and it's so rewarding," he says. "If you write a joke and tell it to an audience of 15,000 people who laugh their heads off at it, it's the best feeling in the world."

"This is comedy. We are trying to make people laugh here. So, let's be really silly for two hours. That's where I come in."

"My show is about silliness and exaggerated stories. I like jokes where people don't stop laughing. I want that all the time."

"I don't just like to use punchlines anymore, especially in arenas. They freak me out. There is nothing worse than 15,000 people waiting for a punchline. You're standing there thinking, 'I hope I remember the punchline.' But once you start to think that, you immediately forget it."

"I prefer getting into that sense of rolling laughter. When you get that right, there's no better feeling. I used to be daunted by the prospect of performing in an arena. But having played so many arenas now, I can see that there is something rather magical about them."

Love Always a success for Shane

Westlife singer Shane Filan is back, fresh from the success of his hugely successful Love Always tour in autumn 2017 and will be in concert at Birmingham's New Alexandra Theatre on Saturday. Shane says:

"Birmingham has such an amazing crowd, I just had to perform here again. In fact, the whole tour went so well I thought I would love to take it back out. It was such fun and the fans have taken Love Always to their hearts. I may be adding a few surprises to make this leg a little different."

Joe's mischief makes his tour a comedy hit

With sell out nights across the country it's safe to say that Birmingham comic Joe Lycett's latest tour - splendidly named I'm About To Lose Control And I Think Joe Lycett - is a huge success. His laconic skewering of pomposity and humourless officialdom via email battles has certainly struck a chord. The Hall Green comedian can expect a warm home welcome at the New Alexandra Theatre on May 10 and 11, before returning to his home region at a sold out Dudley Town Hall on September 7. He has additional dates on November 12 and 27 at Symphony Hall and Wolverhampton's Aldersley Leisure Village on November 26. There is comedy this week with those Grumpy Old Women - Jennyclair, Dillie Keane and Lizzie Roper - on Wednesday, May 9, at the New Alexandra Theatre in Birmingham.

Denture Clinic Principal Steven Burchell Dip CDT RCS(Eng) GDC 108353 with his thrilled patient Theresa Reardon

Below: Her badly fitting and painful old dentures

WHEN Theresa Reardon from London set out on a mission to fix a longstanding dental problem she never imagined it would take a lifetime's search before finding the answer . . . in Dudley.

Even a trip as a dental tourist to a Budapest clinic delivered only disappointment.

Remarkably, she never lost hope that one day she'd stumble upon a happy clinical outcome, despite decades of false dawns.

"I was determined to find an answer and I found Mr Steven Burchell at the Denture Clinic," she declares.

Her breakthrough came eight years ago while looking after a doctor in Wolverhampton, but never realised a story she was reading in the local newspaper would have such an impact on her daily living.

The devout Catholic from County Cork in southern Ireland, who moved to London when she was 25, adds: "I'd come to Wolverhampton and in a quiet moment was reading the free paper, The Chronicle. I saw a story there about a lady who couldn't eat properly and how Steven had sorted her out, so I kept the cutting."

Eight years passed before she was prompted to look at the article again after her denture prescription from the Hungarian capital broke.

"I read it over and over again, booked an appointment, got on the train and made my way to Dudley," she recalls.

Theresa suffered all her denture life with a protruding lower bite where the bottom teeth are more prominent than the upper.

This can sometimes make chewing difficult and patients self-conscious. My bottom dentures were so unstable my diet was always restricted," she says.

Staff at the clinic in North Street were shocked to learn she had travelled alone to her appointment and was returning to her Golders Green apartment in London the same day.

I'll have steak

"Nothing was going to stop me," she added. "The teeth I'd been made ten years before in Budapest were useless and they hurt like hell. My new ones don't hurt at all and for the very first time my top teeth can come over my bottom teeth."

On the day her new prescription was fitted she decided to celebrate with a meal out at the Miller & Carter steakhouse in Penn.

"I was advised to take it gently, but my teeth felt so good I thought I'll have a steak," she says. It was the first time Theresa could tackle such a "difficult meal". With school-girl laughter she adds: "I loved it. It was worth waiting for."

Admitting to a regular tippie of red wine, she's determined to carry on celebrating her new teeth and making the best of her restored confidence.

"I may even manage the odd glass of sherry," she jokes. "It's been a long time coming and I'm so grateful that I don't have to put my hand over my mouth any more.

I was always afraid to smile, but now . . .

look at me, all thanks to Steven."

Theresa's problems began when at 18 she took at job as a doctor's receptionist in Cork. She was advised to have a full clearance after gum disease was diagnosed.

"The bite on every set of teeth I had was never right until now," she says.

Theresa left Cork with two other girls to stay with an order of nuns in Harrow.

"I was helping at a nursing home. The Reverend Mother sent my two friends back home but encouraged me to apply for a job with the Queen's Household and I worked as a deputy catering supervisor at Buckingham Palace."

Reflecting on her colourful life, she adds in a beautifully musical Cork accent: "Every year I get a Christmas card from the Queen."

Tuck into feast from the Middle East

If you were to rank world cuisines on suitability for a first date then Lebanese would rank pretty low.

And that's not because it's a food that lacks sensuality. No, the problem with choosing a Lebanese restaurant for a first date is that you'll most certainly end up with a load of herbs in your teeth.

Eat a tabbouleh salad and smile afterwards at your peril; the likelihood of a second date will flash before your eyes. This salad isn't just heavy on parsley, it uses the grassy herb in Pavarotti-size proportions, only making way for a sprinkling of bulghur wheat, chopped tomatoes and spring onion.

Fattoush salads are pimped up with a garden's worth of parsley and mint, and let's not mention the cuisine's use of seeds. Jet black nigella seeds poke fun at diners with receding gums as they are liberally sprinkled on top of natural labné (strained yoghurt) while the ruby jewels of pomegranates are strewn on salads, stews and sauces.

FORTUNATE

And so it was rather fortunate that when I visited the new Birmingham branch of Comptoir Libanais I was not on a first date. Or a second or third date. It's safe to say that after more than 16 years together, me and the other half are well into harmonious, herb-munching, couldn't care less about the consequences territory. We eat garlic with gusto, curries without caution and carry breath mints rarely. It's a happy time.

Happier even since Comptoir Libanais opened in Grand Central.

Interiors are a riot of colour and eccentricity. Walls, decorated in bright Moorish tiles, are adorned with quirky artworks and gold etched plates. Baklava is piled high in the entrance and there are staff lingering outside, trying to entice customers into their cavernous lair.

The food of a nation – Lebanese mezze plates

Styled on a Beirut canteen, there's an open kitchen and the informal restaurant buzzes with noise, chatter and clatter of crockery.

The menu features hot and cold mezze plus wraps, salads and tagines as well as other Lebanese dishes such as roasted sea bass topped with spiced coriander, tomato and tahina sauce. The exotic ingredients – sumac, Damascus olives, tahini, labné, rose syrup, all made me wistful for far off lands. Let's run off to Lebanon, I thought. Who says Lebanese food isn't romantic. As long as you don't mind herbs in your teeth, that is.

We chose the mezze platter for two featuring piles of falafels, grilled halloumi, tabbouleh and freekeh salads, pitta breads alongside pools of baba ghanouj and hummus. And a shed load of herbs.

We also ordered some lamb kibbeh, tasty lemon-shaped parcels of minced meat, cracked wheat, pine nuts and spices, and a piquant fattoush salad. It all looked as good as it tasted

Comptoir Libanais has opened in Grand Central

With 20 minutes to spare before we needed to dash off to the cinema we decided to risk ordering dessert, struggling to choose between the plate of baklava, the date-syrup topped frozen yoghurt and the chocolate, orange and cardamom tart. So we ordered all three but were left a bit disappointed.

Although we were allocated a waitress, service was chaotic. The bill came to just over £43 which included four Diet Cokes and service charge – all reasonably good value.

Buying a used car can be a daunting experience. Without prior knowledge, selecting a vehicle from a list of thousands can prove to be a little overwhelming – and can prove costly if done incorrectly.

Fortunately, we've put together a list of the things you need to check when buying a used vehicle.

● Check its history

Once you've picked out a car you like from the classifieds, it's imperative that you check the car's history. Many companies provide this service for a small fee and require just the car's registration. You can also find out a vehicle's MOT history via the government's website, and this gives you an idea as to any faults the vehicle may have had, or still suffers from.

● Ask questions

Before you even go anywhere near the car, give the seller a ring and ask them about it. This could save you hundreds of pounds by eliminating the need to travel and see the car if it isn't quite right for you.

● Get up close and personal

Once you get to the car, it's time to give a thorough going over. Check that the engine isn't warm – this could be a sign that the owner is trying to hide some mechanical faults.

● Look out for rust spots on the arches – these are prone to corrosion – and check underneath the car's sills, too.

● Look under the bonnet

Of course, checking out the engine is a crucial part of the inspection process. Check the dipstick – is the oil fresh?

Also look around the oil filler cap – any white residue could potentially mean a blown head gasket, and could lead to thousands of pounds in repair bills. Make sure that you see receipts for any work that has been undertaken on the car too – this will give you a better idea about the state of its mechanicals.

● Check the interior

Does the interior of the car match the mileage? If the car has a beaten-up interior but has low miles, it could mean that the vehicle has been 'clocked', where the car's odometer is wound back. This is less prevalent in newer cars, but it's worth bearing in mind.

● Do the deal

If you've checked the car over, reviewed its history and feel happy with the overall package, then it's time to make an offer. Don't be afraid of pitching low – there's a good chance that the seller could take it, saving you thousands.

Remember to keep things amicable and, above anything, don't be afraid to walk away if you're not happy.

Look under the bonnet carefully

Arabian Nights and Days with the Amarok in Oman

By Jack Evans

Picture the scene: There's a two-tonne pick-up lodged in sand up to its axles, wheels spinning furiously while two people attempt to push it free. Welcome to Oman: The home of rocky valleys, dried-out riverbeds and – as we found – extremely deep sand dunes.

But let's take things back a little bit. Volkswagen wanted to showcase just what its Amarok pick-up – now featuring an even more powerful diesel engine – could do on some seriously difficult terrain, and this, as it happens, is what you find in Oman.

Day one would see us introduced to our trucks. Now, any pick-up looks good with plenty of off-road kit fitted to it, but the Amarok was exceptional. A snorkel, raised suspension and chunky all-surface tyres had been fitted to make the big VW more capable on awkward surfaces – and in truth it made the vehicle look seriously good.

Our first route would take in mostly motorways before leading up away from the sea at Fins and into the mountains. If you thought the UK was a hotbed for speed cameras, you need to go to Oman. There's a speed trap nearly every few miles on the motorway, and this means you're always pretty cautious about how quickly you're going.

The route quickly spikes up, heading into the Hajar Mountains. On tarmac, the Amarok remains predictably well refined, but it's on the loose gravel and dust of the mountain roads where it really shines. It manages to shimmy around and let you know that the surface is a little unstable, but it never feels like it's out of control.

As we arrived at the Salmah Plateau – our stopover point for the night – we were handed a pop-up tent, a sleeping bag and told to pick a rock-free spot on the ground. The surface was too hard to drive tent pegs into, so we ended up weighing the tents down with large boulders from nearby. Rough and ready, that's for sure, but it certainly reflected the ethos of the Amarok.

Our next day's driving would see us push further south into the country, heading towards the 1,000 Nights Camp in the middle of the desert.

The route was fringed at many points by wadis. These dried-out river beds are large and wide, and created by frequent torrents gushing down the mountains after heavy rainfall. We stop briefly in the middle of one as a guide tells us how many unsuspecting drivers leave their cars in the wadis and return after it's rained to find them completely washed away. Needless to say, we hurry onwards shortly afterwards.

After a quick stopover at midday we mount up once

The route for our triptook in long, dusty trails that snake through the desert more and head towards the desert. Stopping at the small town of Al Mintarib on the outskirts, we drop the air pressure in the tyres. Lower tyres, after all, make for better traction on sand.

As we head out of the town, the tarmac quickly drops away and gives way to sand – lots and lots of sand.

Now, I'll happily admit that I haven't driven on sand before. Snow? Yes. Gravel? Forget about it. Sand, however, proved to be a new challenge.

Driving up the first incline, I got stuck. Wheels spinning, sending sand up into the air, there was little I could do to get moving. Thankfully, though, with a bit of pushing from some others in the group, I managed to get free.

After a few more successful dunes, a steeper incline appeared. I'd learnt by now that the best option was to hit the deeper sections as hard as possible – speed is a bit of an ally when it comes to sand driving, apparently.

Thankfully, the approach worked and the truck flew up the slope with little effort, though a large bump in the middle was – according to those stood watching – a result of the truck taking off from the ground. Maybe a little too much speed then...

At the top of the hill I leave the truck to have a look at the remaining Amaroks attempting the climb. Most make it to the top and move onwards, but some reach the summit and then immediately get stuck. Many get properly beached, and it takes a few hours to move them out.

By the time all the trucks are freed it's dark. Thankfully, our overnight stopover is in the middle of the dunes. The 1,000 Nights Camp proves to be the ideal place to park up after a long day.

The next day sees us rolling back to Muscat. The route takes in long, dusty trails that snake through the desert towards Al Mintarib. There, we reinflate the tyres and hit the tarmac.

After driving on sand for so long, firm ground seems strange – you're almost expecting it to shift around underneath you.

Arriving at our final hotel, I say goodbye to 'my' Amarok. With hundreds of miles covered and many difficult conditions conquered, it was a hard farewell. However, the big Volkswagen more than proved its worth, and showed that despite being comfortable and refined, it can more than take on the rough stuff.

Expect the unexpected out of town

Road safety and breakdown organisation GEM Motoring Assist is urging drivers to pay extra attention on rural road journeys this summer. Although traffic levels are generally lighter, rural roads account for nearly 60% of all fatalities (a total of 943 in 2015, compared with 577 on urban roads).

GEM road safety officer Neil Worth says: "Driving in the countryside is usually a great pleasure, with good views, quiet roads and a variety of interesting terrain.

"But a narrow, twisting road offers very little clue as to what might be round the next bend.

"That's why we're urging drivers to expect the unexpected and to make sure they have time and space to stop safely if necessary.

"What's round the corner on a rural road with restricted visibility?

"It could be another car or a motorcycle coming towards you too fast, a group of cyclists on a ride out, sheep or cattle crossing the road, a horse and rider, a wild animal, a slow-moving farm tractor...

"The point is that until you have perfect sight of what's ahead, you need to be ready to anticipate what could be there.

"By adjusting your speed and your position accordingly, you're doing your bit to keep yourself and the other road users safe."

GEM has prepared a selection of simple driver tips to help improve rural road safety:

● Make sure you use any existing signage to help you.

Usual signs include a series of white chevron signs on a black background, indicating a sharp bend.

Slow down, even if the posted speed limit is 30 mph.

● The narrowness of country lanes means that passing places are sometimes provided into embankments or verges.

Be prepared to reverse into these if necessary.

● Stay safe by never exceeding the signed limit.

Country lanes are often used as a short cut or an escape from congested main roads.

Using them may actually be a longer way round to your destination leading you to be in a hurry. Slow down.

Be aware of what be around the corner

● Country lanes may be in a poor state of repair. At any sign of this be ready for pot-holes and other broken surfaces that can seriously damage your vehicle.

● Give horse riders a very slow and wide berth and keep your distance until it becomes safe to pull past.

Vauxhall is offering greater versatility with Combo Life

By James Parker

Vauxhall has entered the leisure activity vehicle segment with the Combo Life.

Available in either five- or seven-seat configurations, the Combo Life comes fitted with sliding doors designed to make it a practical option for larger families.

The rearmost seats are individual units too, and their design means that even those in the back have enough room to stretch out.

A variety of safety features have also been fitted to the Combo Life, with systems such as driver drowsiness alert, a head-up display and forward collision alert with pedestrian detection helping contribute to a safe overall driving experience.

It also comes with autonomous emergency braking fitted as standard.

Flank Guard, a new collision detection system fitted to the Combo Life, uses 12 sensors to monitor the extremities of the car. Should it detect that the vehicle is about to hit an obstacle, it will warn the driver via the main infotainment screen.

In addition, the Combo Life benefits from Apple CarPlay and Android Auto systems for better smartphone integration, controlled via a central colour touchscreen.

The Combo Life will be offered with one of a number of turbocharged petrol and diesel engines – though Vauxhall has yet to specify the exact list of units powering the car. All will be available with either a five- or six-speed manual gearbox, or an eight-speed automatic.

Thanks to a standard overall length of 4.4 metres – or 4.75 metres in the extended version – the Combo Life has a minimum 597 litres of boot storage, rising to 850 litres in the long wheelbase variant.

However, this rises to 2,126 litres in the regular Combo Life with the rear seats folded flat, or 2,693 in the longer model.

The Vauxhall Combo Life is predicted to arrive in showrooms later in the year, with full prices and specifications predicted to be announced a few months before it does so.

Top awards for Nissan Leaf and Micra

By James Parker

The European New Car Assessment Programme awarded the new Nissan Leaf with a stellar 5-star rating just a short time after the Nissan Micra won a major award.

The Leaf is the first car to be assessed against Euro NCAP's improved and extended protocols for 2018. The 2018 protocol sees the introduction of a raft of new tests which address key crash scenarios involving cars, pedestrians and now also the growing number of cyclists.

In these Euro NCAP tests, the Leaf earned a 93 per cent rating for adult safety and an 86 per cent rating for child protection. The safety rating is determined from a series of vehicle tests that, in a simplified way, reflect important real-life accident scenarios that could result in injuries.

Technology

The new Leaf 5-star rating reflects the advanced driver assistance systems packaged on the car. Technologies such as camera and radar feature extensively to provide benefits such as pedestrian recognition and form the basis of Nissan's acclaimed ProPILOT system for safer, more confident driving.

Gareth Dunsmore, electric vehicle director, Nissan Europe, explained: "The Euro NCAP announcement proves what we have known for a long time – that the new Nissan Leaf has exceptional safety standards and is a true pioneer in the EV space.

"This shows that our customers can fully trust our Nissan Intelligent Mobility vision, we are on a path to transform the way we drive and the way we live."

The announcement has been released just months after the Japan New Car Assessment Program also awarded the car the top 5-star grade following rigorous testing.

In earning the top rating, the Leaf scored 94.8 points out of a possible 100 for occupant safety in a collision.

The program is organized by Japan's Ministry of Land, Infrastructure, Transport and Tourism and the National Agency for Automotive Safety and Victims' Aid. More details on that announcement can be found here.

The Nissan Micra has won the 'Car of the Year' accolade at the inaugural 2018 FirstCar awards. Micra has historically been a popular choice of car for learner and first time drivers due to its affordable pricing and compact practicality.

The Nissan Micra is packed with technology and powered by a range of efficient and responsive engines to inspire a confident and fun drive, making it a great choice for anyone starting their driving career.

FirstCar aims to encourage learner drivers while they prepare for their driving test and supports young drivers to make informed decisions after they gain their licence. With road-safety education at the forefront of the agenda for FirstCar, Micra delivers plenty of safety equipment and driver aids such as Intelligent Emergency Braking with pedestrian recognition, Intelligent Lane Intervention, Lane Departure Warning and High Beam Assist as standard.

David Motton, FirstCar editor and chairman of the judging panel, said: "You couldn't want for a better first car than the Micra.

"With low insurance group ratings and a range of efficient engines, the Nissan is affordable to run. It's also equipped with the kind of safety features you'd expect of a much bigger and more expensive car.

The new Nissan Leaf achieved a 5-star rating in NCAP awards

"It's not just a safe and sensible choice. With a huge range of interior and exterior finishes, new drivers can really express themselves when specifying the car."

Alex Smith, managing director of Nissan GB, commented: "The Micra clearly ticks plenty of boxes for learner and young drivers. With advanced driver assistance systems as standard, over 100 personalisation combinations, the unique BOSE Personal sound system and low tax and fuel costs, it's clear why Micra has been and will continue to be a logical and fun choice for younger drivers."

With emissions as low as 85g/km, fuel economy of up to 88.3 mpg and prices starting from just £12,400, the new Nissan Micra is unsurprisingly popular with younger drivers and represents a perfect balance of urban performance and low running costs.

Coady: Players will miss Premier derby

WOLVES captain Conor Coady says winning the Championship is 'the best feeling in the world' - but admits he would miss the atmosphere of a derby should no West Midlands rivals join them in the Premier League.

The 25-year-old admits the players are 'a little bit disappointed' there would be no Black Country derby if the Baggies are relegated.

Coady, speaking as a guest of BBC Radio Merseyside in his home city of Liverpool, said: "It's the best feeling in the world (to be champions), to get promoted that weekend. But to beat Bolton 4-0 knowing we'd already been promoted, and the performance the boys put in just shows the character they've got."

But he added he would have loved to take on Black Country rivals Albion. "You want to play West Brom, as a Wolves player, as a Wolves fan," he said. "They all want to play West Brom, we really do."

"We want to play them and experience that atmosphere because we all know what it can be like."

Heart rules head to keep Heathens racing

CRADLEY Heathens bosses have revealed how they let the heart rule the head to keep the club in action this season.

Club director Nigel Pearson told a packed fans forum organised by the Heathens Supporters Trust how they were within a whisker of closing last October after eight seasons at National League level.

No new home track, fewer dates available at Wolverhampton and financial losses when staging home meetings at Birmingham left the club in crisis. But Pearson said: "My head told me to close the club and I think the same applied to my colleagues. However, the heart told me different."

"We still have a loyal fanbase and fantastic support from Dean and Adam Bridge at Motor Market, plus the tremendous partnership with Dr Rod Brooks. The last three seasons have been tough, the fact is when we have to host meetings away from Monmore it doesn't work financially."

Pearson also answered fans' questions on the long term and whether the management were still committed to a new track.

Footballers hoping to score with charity

TWO brothers hope a five-a-side football tournament will prove a winner for charity. Gurcharan and Herjinder Bhujhangy, of Halesowen, are organising the tournament in aid of the British Heart Foundation.

It takes place at Goals, Cakemore Road, Blackheath, on Saturday, June 3. Teams can enter a maximum of seven players per team, with adult teams costing £70 and children's teams at £30. Register at Goals on 0121 561 3000 or via Gurcharan on 07762 521584 before May. 21

This is the third time the brothers have organised the annual event for the BHF. The fundraising total for 2017 was £1,075. They originally supported the BHF as a result of losing their father Dalbir Khanpur Bhujhangy, aged 59, as a result of heart failure in November 2008. He was part of the legendary Bhujhangy bhanga group, formed in Smethwick in 1967. Tragically, the brothers have since also lost a friend, Harman Dhami, 37.

Gurcharan said: "This football tournament is a tribute to these two great men."

Former star Eves: Wolves golden days here again

SPORTING FEATURE

By Tim Spiers

"It is really heart-warming to see as a Wolves fan that we are back in the Premier League."

WOLVES legend Mel Eves says this season has been 'one of the best' in recent years after the club won the Championship title and promotion to the Premier League.

The former striker, who netted 44 league goals for the club during a nine-year spell in which he played 180 games, declared the football under Nuno Espirito Santo a joy to watch this season.

Wolves were crowned the Championship winners last Saturday after thrashing Bolton 4-0.

Eves spoke during the 30th anniversary dinner of the Wolves Former Players' Association at Molineux on April 19.

Shrewd

Eves, who later represented the likes of Sheffield United and Gillingham, said: "It has been an absolute joy this season to watch the football on show."

"It has been one of the best seasons that I think most people can remember, certainly since the team were doing really well."

"Under Mick McCarthy we did well but we were really surviving. We weren't expected to do nothing more than be OK."

"The Fosun group, they mean business. But you also have to be very shrewd in the players that you bring in, the manager you bring in, and the way you integrate everything and get everyone singing off the same hymn sheet.

"From the original 1950s team, Wolves were the best in Europe let alone this country."

"That is why Wolves have got their heritage and why older guys, like me and generations gone by, appreciate Wolves are a big club."

"Make no mistake about it, they are a big club."

"It is really heart-warming to see as a Wolves fan that we are back in the Premier League."

"Congratulations to everyone involved at Wolves from the top down."

"The manager Nuno, the fans love him, everyone loves him."

Former Wolves players turned out in force for the special event.

Among them was former defender Jody Craddock, an artist who has painted portraits of the current players, which have been used on the covers of match day programmes.

Craddock said: "It is brilliant to come along. I enjoy catching up with all the old players."

"It has been a tremendous season and we have played some superb football."

"It is nice to be involved in such a fantastic season. When I started (my artwork) I didn't realise we would get promoted but it has worked out fantastic. To be asked to do it is an honour."

"That will be part of history now forever. It is nice for me as an artist and an ex-player."

Former goalkeeper Phil Parkes said: "It is great to be here, all the lads get back together."

"It has been a different type of football this past season."

"What the club have done this season has been fantastic."

Blue hoops team takes on Masters

DUDLEY Kingswinford athletes rubbed shoulders, at least on the start line, with some top quality runners from the older age groups, taking part in the British National Masters Road Relays Championships at Sutton Park, restricted to athletes aged over 35.

Teams from all over the country were looking to claim national medals. The blue hoops fielded two men's teams and were off the blocks just after noon in the M55 category with a team of three covering the 5k course. Mark Homer was first away, coming home in 19th place in 20.23. Graham Wildgoose finished in 22.14 putting the club in 20th. Pete Hood made up three places bringing the club home in 21.05 and a final finishing position of 17th and an overall time of 1.03.42 behind medallists South London Harriers, Herne Hill and Cambuslang.

Although the club had entered a complete M35s team, with some having to run down an age group to make up the numbers, a couple of late drop outs due to illness and injury meant the club could only field four runners where six were required. Dave Norman led the team off, running 19.10 over the 5k course placing the club in 31st position.

Darran Bishop maintained their position in 19.33, Steve Parr again placed the club in 31st, in 21.49 and John Andrews completed DK's incomplete team, dropping to 33rd, in 25.55. Without a fifth and sixth runner they were left to watch the final two legs with Salford Harriers claiming victory from Thames Hare & Hounds and Tipton Harriers.

Yeltz ease to final game win over fellow strugglers

Halesowen 2 Stalybridge Celtic 0
HALESOWEN eased to a two-goal victory as the two sides immediately above the bottom met in the final game of a difficult season.

The weary visitors had played nine games in the previous fortnight as Steve Burr ended his reign as Celtic manager with another defeat.

Halesowen had the better of the first half but were unable to break the deadlock. Little was seen from Celtic although Jake Charles crossed from the left in the 26th minute and Harrison Holgate blasted the loose ball over.

After a slow start to the second period, Lee Hughes was penalised after handling the ball into the net.

The Yeltz finally grabbed a 57th minute lead when Hughes played a ball into the danger area and the ball was knocked back for super-sub Roland Agbor to find the bottom corner.

Ali powered a 67th minute header home directly from Jack Kelly's corner to make it 2-0.

Late on, Agbor fired a 75th minute low shot wide.

A winning Double for racing pair

The team celebrates. Alex James Photography

IT was business as usual for the Double Two Racing boys – minus some of the occasional drama – as the team raced to another victory.

Black Country pair Pete Wright and Martyn Siviter made it back-to-back wins after two rounds of the No Limits Endurance championship at Cadwell Park in Lincolnshire.

Wright, from Tivdale, started seventh on the grid but first in the Club 600 class in the three-hour race. A third of the way into his stint, Wright was passed by eventual National 600 winners Pertemps Racing. Sponsorship team Track Prep Racing pulled off a cracking 20-second pit stop and sent Siviter, from Blackheath, on his way to chase down Pertemps' Colin Norris.

Siviter was holding first in the Club 600 class by two laps, and sitting third in National 600 while catching Pertemps every lap but peeled into pit lane to send Wright out for his second stint.

The Track Prep team cut the pit stop time down to 17 seconds to send Siviter on his way in spitting rain. His lap times started picking up and he bought the team home first in Club 600, third in National 600 and ninth overall.

LEON TAKES THE HONOURS

GLASSBOYS' veteran Leon Broadhurst swept the boards at Stourbridge FC's end of season presentation.

The long-serving midfielder, who has notched up 730 games in Glassboys colours, was the club's top scorer with 19 goals, and at Saturday's ceremony, which followed a 2-1 win over play-off hopefuls Warrington, Broadhurst took home a clutch of awards.

He was named Players' Player of the Year; Manager's Player of the Year; the Committee/Directors Player of the Year (in memory of Alan Pitt); Supporters' Player of the Year and also picked up the award for most 'Man of the Match' wins (in memory of Steve Hickman).

Leon Broadhurst

Karl Clifton won the 'Clubman of the Year' award for his efforts behind the scenes.

Costly

Meanwhile, boss Gary Hackett was left to rue a number of costly late goals over the season as Glassboys finished 12th in the Evo-Stik Premier, although they could still lift the Birmingham Senior Cup. They take on Hednesford Town in the final at St Andrew's next Tuesday.

Hackett said: "If we hadn't conceded those goals we would probably be looking at 10 or 15 points more and we would have been around the play-offs."

On Saturday, Stourbridge came from behind after Joseph Piggot's opener to win with goals from Broadhurst and Luke Benbow.

Former Walsall defender Darryl Westlake and youth team captain Jake Evans have signed new contracts for 2018/19.

Westlake, 27, is just four shy of a century of games for Glassboys. Evans has progressed to make five first-team appearances off the bench.

Lions roar to cup triumph

Sedgley White Lion under-9s have won the league cup for their group

A JUNIOR football team has continued to beat the odds, being crowned league cup champions of their group in the Stourbridge & District Youth League.

Sedgley White Lion under-9s will be presented with their trophy in June.

However, at the start of the season, the players were without a pitch when Wolverhampton Council refused permission to use Bantock Park. Woodfield School agreed to accommodate the side and immediate success followed.

They made such an impact that bosses were forced to reshuffle the league mid-season, with the Lions moving up from the fifth to the first division.

Last weekend the league cup was secured and a club spokesman said: "The boys have made such an achievement in their very successful eight months together as a team."

"All of the parents are extremely proud of the hard work the boys and their coaches Paul Shields and Paul Timmins have put in."

Home tie for play-offs in DK's hands

Melbourne 14 DK 19

AT the end of the game at Melbourne it was very much a case of job done. DK go into their last league game against Lutterworth with the possibility of a home play-off tie still within their reach.

Melbourne, meanwhile, needed at least a single point to maintain their points difference advantage over Rugby Lions in the battle to avoid the drop.

The opening score came on the half hour through Melbourne's Euan Holden, which he then converted, and 7-0 was the score at the break.

Good play saw left winger Sam Hancock touch down for a second try, Holden converted and the hosts' led 14-0.

Into the final quarter, DK still trailed by 14 points, but they were now maintaining a significant territorial advantage. From a line out on the left wing the DK forwards worked the ball in front of the Melbourne posts, and Jordan Brookes appeared from the break down drove hard and made the line, with Sam Vaughan adding the extras.

Well into the final quarter of the game and DK were a man up due to a Melbourne yellow card. From a scrum, Tommy Walker headed in for a try out wide on the right wing and Nic Adams made it 14-14.

Callum Nicholls picked up and made a diagonal run, carrying the defenders over the line with him for the final try. The conversion was missed but the whistle went and DK had won.

Melbourne had achieved their survival and DK still have the home play-off in their own hands against Lutterworth this weekend.

Heathens off but now back on track

CRADLEY Heathens are back in action next week.

The Heathens race against Stoke Poters in the National Trophy at Monmore Green, on Bank Holiday Monday, May 7, at 7.30pm.

It is the side's first meeting of the season after Sunday's National Trophy fixture against Coventry at Leicester was postponed due to a waterlogged track.

A new date for the fixture is to be confirmed.
